The Ricette di Campagna is a complete and balanced pet food line, indicated for dogs of all breeds, but especially for those that practice intense activity or live outdoors in the cold seasons. All the foods in the Ricette di Campagna line are produced following two processing phases: extrusion of corn, which favours the digestibility of carbohydrates and helps to maintain the nutritional properties unaltered; glazing of proteins, vitamins and minerals, which is done cold. The accurate selection of ingredients, the multiple controls at every stage of the production process and the very type of processing used in the Ricette di Campagna make these foods very palatable and suitable for dogs of all breeds.
